THE LAST TREASURE

THE LAST TREASURE

All that the hand can grasp we cust behind.
In that last hour that brings us down to death.
Yea, the high wisdom of the soaring mind
Grows poor and worthless with the failing breath
The perial is so narrow! What shall pass
Out with the spirit when it journeys forth?
The gaine it cherished are so little worth.
Of so poor value all the wealth it has.
This dear belonging is no longer dear.
And that, so needful once, is needless now.
Ambition's crown falls from the dying brow!
Oh soul, what keep'st thou of all thy sojourn here?
Nay, a. thy treasures may be dropped, save one,
For if thou hast not Faith, thou goest forth alone!

BIRTHDAY STONE FOR JANUARY. JANUARY.

By her who in this month is born No gems save garnets should be w They will insure her constancy. True friendship and fidelity.

The garnet is a widespread mineral, varying color, beauty and value. A gray-green garnet is found in Hungary and Siberia, and the white garnet in the Urais. The deep red, or precious, garnet often has a density close to that of the ruby, for which stone it is often sold. The Syrian, or Pegu, garnets, sometimes called Orientals, vary in color from a deep red to a violet purple, and have been found three inches in diameter.

The garnet was much used as a jewel in ancient Antique intagitos of garnet are recognized by their usually fragmentary appearance, owing to heir brittleness, and by a softness of color parted by time, which defles imitation. The bust of Hadrian, in the Odescalchi Museum; the Venus Gentrix, in the cabinet of Abbé Pullini, at Turin, and the representation of Sirius on the celebrated Mariborough stone are among the finest engrav-

THE PATALITY IN THIRTY-FOURTH-ST.

The inquest into the death of William F. Byrne, thirty-eight years old, of No. 822 Manhattan-ave Greenpoint, who was kicked in the neck, it is alleged, by Michael McDonaid, the conductor of to board the car on January 1 was held yester tay by Coroner Zucca. The jury decided that Byrne died from an extensive hemorrhage causer After the verdict had been announced McDonald was committed to the Tombs without ball, to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Several persons testified at the hearing that they saw McDonald kick Byrne. Among the eye-wit-nesses were Policeman Frank J. Burns, of the East He swore on the witness stand that he saw McDonald push away from th car a man who had been holding to the tailboard. After being pushed the man started to run after the car egain, and when he reached the car the conductor kicked him in the face with his left

"I saw the man's head go back," added Police man Burns. "Then he put his hand to his face and reeled over on the sidewalk unconscious." George M. Lorenzo, of No. 34 East Twelfth-st. and Philip Kramer, of No. 419 East Seventy-eighth also testified that they saw McDonald kick John Edward McAleer, the driver of the car swore that Byrne was intoxicated, and that he saw him strike the conductor in the face, but that he did not see McDonald kick Byrne. McDonald's own story was that Byrne struck him on the nose. He pulled the bell and Byrne put his hand on his hip pocket and ran after the car. He raised on his hip pocar and and leg to ward off the blow, but he could not see if his foot struck Byrne in the face McDonald produced a bloodstained handkerchief to prove that he had been struck by Byrne. Deputy-Coroner Williams, who performed the Deputy-coroner winams, who performed the actions, said that the cause of death was hemorrhage of the brain. The hemorrhage was undoubtedly caused by violence of some kind, but there was no external evidence that the man had note kicked in the neck. Dr. Frank Ferguson, who was present at the autopsy gate it as his opinion that the hemorrhage was too extensive to have been caused by violence.

AT WORK IN ARNOLD'S OFFICE.

ACCOUNTANTS GATHERING TESTIMONY FOR THE USE OF THE INVESTI-GATION COMMITTEE

A large force of accountants worked in the Surre-gate's office yesterday, under the direction of John Proctor Clarke, taking from the official records information to be used as evidence in the forthcoming investigation of Surrogate Arnold. Assembly-man Edward H. Fallows, chairman of the investi-gating Committee, was at the Surrogate's office in onsultation with Mr. Clarke part of the day. Mr. Fallows may not be able to go to Albany this week on account of the work of preparation for the investigation. The meeting of the committee in Alhany to-day, there fore, may be postponed. The com-mittee has appointed Mr. Clarke special counsel to aid in the investigation, and there will be no need for a meeting until Friday, when the taking of testimony is begun in the County Courthouse in

Mr. Fallows has received from lawyers of the city a great many letters of a confidential characognite Arnold in hundreds of cases. Names and dates are given in the letters. The information thus obtained will enable the committee to substantiate the most serious charges against the surrogate, it is believed, without much trouble. Witnesses will be called to testify before the committee to the statements made confidentially by the lawyers. The facts obtained by the committee therefore, will be brought out in sworn testimons. Mr. Pallows will be kept busy until Friday arranging the mass of information in his possession and preparing the briefs upon which the examination of witnesses will proceed.

RAPID TRANSIT AND LONG ISLAND.

CONSOLIDATION NOT LIKELY SOON, BUT A PROBABILITY IN TIME.

Any statement to the effect that the Flower syndicate represented by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company is going to buy the Long is and Railroad, in order to secure a monopoly of Long Island transportation lines, needs to be written, for the present at least, with a sarge question mark after it. While that may be the ultimale destiny of the Long isi-THE PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL WOMAN'S and Railroad, the consolidation is so remote that those interested deny it with emphasis. When President Rossiter was asked a direct question last night, he hesitated for an instant, and then said: There is no more prospect of the Rapid Transit ompany buying the Long Island Railroad than there is of it buying the New-York Central

But in these days of traffic arrangements it is not sential that there be an outright purchase. The Nassau Railroad may not be consolidated outright with the Transit Company, but the Transit dominates it, and the two systems are being operated in harmony. Some such arrangement is likely with Raldwin of the Long Island and President Ressiter, of the Transit are a good deal alike in their methods, and each has been highly successful. Their in-terests are not exactly hostile. If the stock of eitner system pays dividends, it will be because of a steadily increasing population in Kings and Queens countles, and the fact that the Brooklyn Elevated and the Long Island are working harmomously together strengthens the belief among Brooklyn investors that the friendly understanding at exists at present may warrant before long practical consolidation of the two big systems-the Transit and the Long Island. President Rossiter's statement can only be interpreted as meaning that there will be no sale of one road to the other. But when the New East River Bridge is completed the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad will be a part of the Transic surface sys tem, and then the ninety-nine-year contract which President Uhimann made with the Long Island road will have a most important bearing on ransportation problem over that thoroughfare The Long Island will then run express passenger trains right into Manhattan over the trains right into Manhattan over the Transit's tracks. This explains the frequent conferences of late between President Rossiter President Baldwin, and William F. Sheehan, counsel for the Transit company President Rossiter will not discuss the subject of the conferences.
